Theory applied to school and school district management. School and school district administrators can benefit from accessing the conceptual model created by Corrigan, Miller, and Van Eck as a framework for decision making. This framework offers stakeholders the perspective of providing students and staff with the time, energy, and resources they need to make a positive impact on learning and student achievement. Building from this framework, administrators can conceptualize the myriad decisions that they will face each day by putting themselves in the shoes of their intended audience. Easing the anxiety associated with planning for change will resonate with all stakeholders and increase the likelihood that they will support or oppose the changes the school or school district is prepared to implement.Q: Is there a mechanism in Visual Studio to speed the selection of an image editor? What's new:

Deathwave is a record label, and a record company, founded in 1991 by DJ Paul Oakenfold in London, England, UK (but partly based in Los Angeles, California, U.S.A.). The label has released a number of singles, albums, and other material. Other notable acts include 808 State, Speedy J, Erik Wobble, Fingathing, Hi-Q, Ian Pooley, Tony Thorpe, Asher D, Jenó García, Butch Malone, Laak and Union, Ok Go, Lucky Soul, and Metro Area. The word "deathwave" and Oakenfold's sound as a DJ is based upon the name of the French electronic band, "Death In June." In the notes to the North African re-release, I can't Live with You, Oakenfold identifies his brainchild in terms of a sonic echo of 'death and affluence' and has no qualms about licensing this image to the advertising industry. In January 2014, it was reported that Oakenfold's bank accounts had been closed. Label information Deathwave International, was originally registered in 1991 as a company trading as Barclay Music. Deathwave, the above-mentioned name, was registered in June of that year. The name was chosen partly because it rhymed with 'wave' and partly because Oakenfold enjoyed the clash of sounds associated with electronic music. Oakenfold started the label as an outlet for his own releases and had a full roster of acts long before his hit DJ'ing became successful. It is also regarded as a pioneering label, having put out an eclectic mix of music. Artists on the label can be split into those who did or are doing DJ gigs (e.g. Oscar Mulero, Black Box, Blade, Art Tripp, Eggada Boy) and those who have been doing music since the 1980s and released their first tracks on the label (e.g. Darren Hayman, Seaweed, Screen Love, Ian Pooley, Paul McGuigan, Gavin Weekes, Tony Thorpe, Captain Flash and Kavus Torabi). History Oakenfold's desire to move from producing reissues to label ownership saw the label disappearing in 1998, when it failed to submit the correct paperwork for copyright on the debut single by ButtonZ, "Spoons", featuring Gordon Sumner, who was head of house at the Beeb.
