A solution using.TextFields might look like this: .NET: .CollapseAll() .Refresh() .SelectFields("Name").Visible = True VB.Net: .CollapseAll() .Refresh() .SelectFields("Name").Visible = True The problem with.SelectFields(string) is that it selects all the fields in the entire sheet regardless of the condition being true or false. So the solution above is to select only the Name fields you want. This will work with reference to multiple sheets. In the code below the.TextFields() function returns multiple sheets. Also, there are multiple Name fields. .TextFields("Name") .SelectFields(1) .TextFields(1).Visible = True If you only want to use a single field do the following: Sheet.SelectField("SheetName.SheetNameFieldName").Select or Sheet.Cells(Row, 1).Select or Sheet.Cells(1, 1).Select A: Based on.TextFields() method .TextFields(Column).TextFields(Row).Visible = True which will work for.refresh code. 01.
